Home Merchants Association Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the Daly City Merchants Association convened at the City Hall, Wednesday evening of this week. President W. E. Pitschke presided and all officers and a number of committee-men were noted present.

The attendance was not as large as was expected, presumably by reason of a number of our members being absent from the city on their annual vacations.

There seems to be, however, an apathy on the part of our merchants in regard to their own organization which is not in keeping with the importance of its maintenance. Hard work is required to keep things going, and a few faithful attendants at meetings should not be expected by the other members to perform all the labor. Remember the adage about the results when you "Let George do it," and turn out and do your share of the work.

After routine business, a general discussion was had about plans for the coming picnic at Oak Cove Park on Sunday, August 30.

When this informal discussion subsided the members betook themselves to the Little Italy Hall, where a committee consisting of Messrs. Vireno, Williamson and Milo had prepared a sumptuous feed. Look what you missed, boys, by not being there!

COLLECT LARGE SUM FOR FINES

Receipts of Daly City Court For Month Of June, 1936 Rise To $522

This was made up mostly of traffic fines. Roy Ashworth was having a good time speeding around the Crocker Tract on June 7, in the early morning; he opened up his muffler and stepped on the gas and didn't take his foot off of it until he terrorized the neighborhood. He drove through a lot, broke his wheel, ran on the rim with fire flying. He was then chased to Market street, where he ran from his car. He did not escape the police however, as they obtained sufficient evidence to identify him and arrest him on a warrant. The judge sentenced him to pay a fine of $50 or 25 days in jail. The fine was paid.

Joe Pozini of the Colonial Restaurant insisted on keeping his place of business open after 2 o'clock a. m. even after being notified by the police and also the city council to cease violating the law. He was arrested on a warrant, and on trial of his case was found guilty by the court and fined $100.

Seventy-three other cases - traffic - were haled before the court and fines ranging from $25 to $2.50 were assessed.

STORE DOLLED UP LIKE NEW

Fancy Front And Other Improvements Add To Attractiveness

The man who "carries nearly everything" has moved back to the old location at 6340 Mission street. What a difference! The store has been considerably enlarged with a whole new front, the window space for display more attractive and commodious.

Henry Warshawski "just had to do it" - not only "carry nearly everything," but enlarge his borders to make room for his ever increasing volume of stock and business. His dream is at last realized.

Visit the new store, and see for yourself how this modernized setting adds attractiveness to every article of merchandise.

Whatever the need, be it silk hosiery, house dresses for women and children, longie, men's furnishings, bedding, oilcloth and other articles too numerous to list, give Warshawski a chance to please you first, thereby giving your home town a boost and saving yourself a lot of time and trouble.

T. address is 6340 Mission street with service and kindness awaiting you.

"PAYING THE PRICE" IS SERMON TOPIC

In Grace Presbyterian Church, on next Sunday, Rev. John R. Stevenson will preach morning and evening.

In the morning the sermon topic will be, "Joseph's Journey Out of Egypt." In the evening at 7:45 the sermon will be, "Paying the Price."

HARRY COLLIER SEEKS POST AS STATE SENATOR

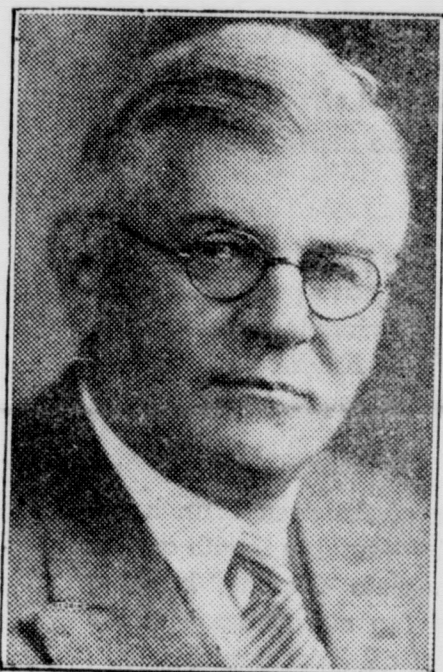

Battles To Win Democratic And Republican Party Nominations

H. F. Collier of Burlingame, publishers representative and for more than twenty years a civic leader of San Mateo County, is making a determined battle to win the Democratic and Republican nominations for State Senator of the Twenty-first District.

Collier has the active backing of Peninsula business men, professional men, civic groups and a large number of citizens, both men and women, who have worked with him and are familiar with his constructive activities over a long period of years.

Already the nucleus of a strong county organization to support his candidacy has been formed, with campaign workers in every section of San Mateo County, many of whom are outstanding leaders in their particular communities.

Within a few days Collier will undertake to stump the county in the interests of his candidacy, backing his plea for support with his long record of activities in behalf of better transportation, more and improved highways, improvement of the county's natural water front and other civic betterments, in the advocacy of which he has always taken a leading part.

In launching his campaign Collier pointed out that it is being financed by a group of men and women of moderate means, who are desirous of seeing a radical change in the county's senatorial setup.

He declared that he is independent of the control of any of the so called "big interests" and that, if successful in his campaign, his entire efforts will be centered upon the initiation and sponsorship of such measures as will redound to the benefit of San Mateo County and all its people, irrespective of race, creed or financial position.

HOME BASEBALL CLUB PLAY AT SAN MATEO SUNDAY

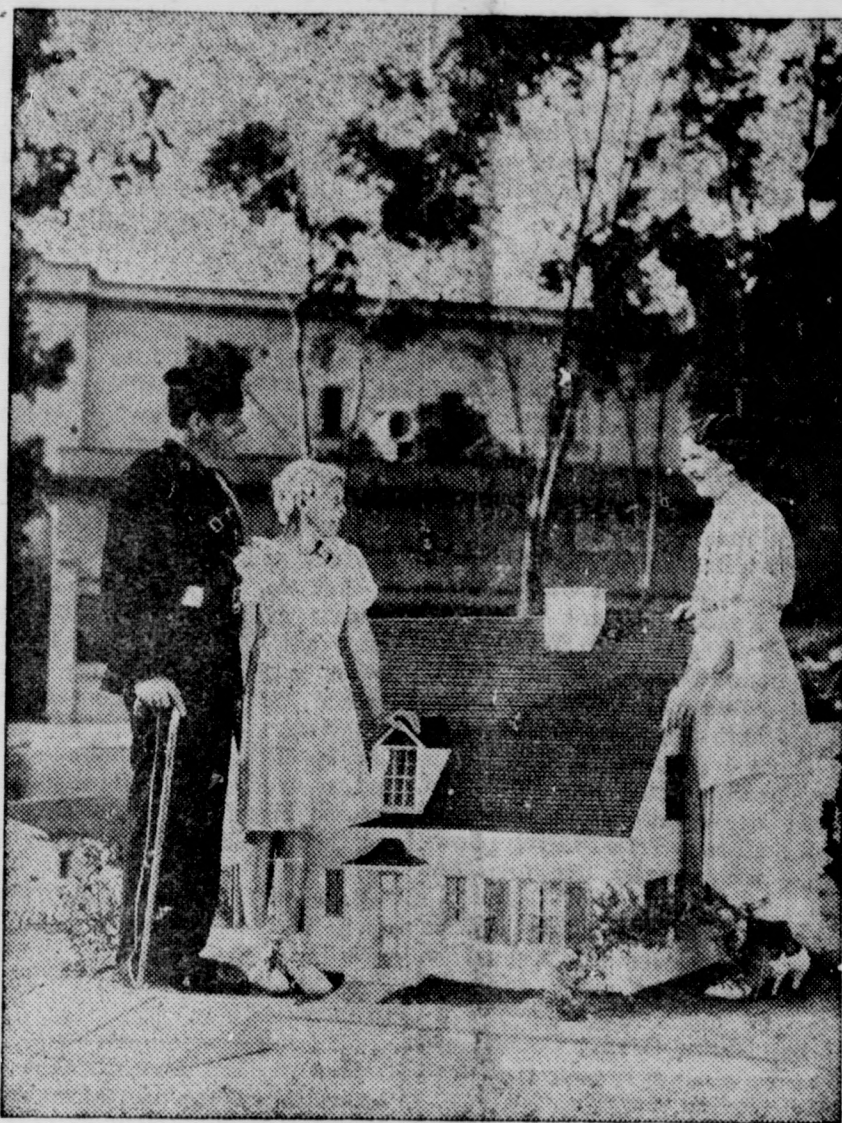

Daly City Tanforans Will Be Seen In Action Against Orinda Reds

Local baseball fans will have a chance, Sunday afternoon next at 2:30 o'clock to enjoy a good game of baseball at the San Mateo City Park grounds.

At that time our own Daly City Tanforans tangle with the Orinda Reds. The latter team has been greatly strengthened, having held the league leading Modesto Reds, last Sunday, to a 6 to 5 game, said to have been a "hum dinger." Our home boys, much elated and confident after knocking off the San Mateo Blues last Sunday, claim they are going right out to win the second half in the State League contest and say nothing can stop them from taking the next Sunday game, although they expect a hard battle. Sturtevant and Volkman will be in the points for Daly City.

Fans will be well repaid for a trip to San Mateo to witness this contest.

Veteran Selects New Home

With many veterans throughout the country planning to build homes with their bonus money, particular interest centers in the Modeltown Exhibit of the Federal Housing Administration at the California Pacific International Exposition at San Diego. Above is shown Mr. and Mrs. Val Dage and their 11-year-old daughter, Virginia, inspecting Model House No. 15, which they intend to build in San Diego exactly as it is seen in exhibit. Ben H. O'Connor is the architect.

Frontier Show To Be Staged At International Exposition

Champions In All Events Are Expected To Be On Hand To Participate

Champion rodeo riders of the West have begun to converge on San Diego and the Exposition for the tenth annual Lakeside Rodeo celebration, June 26, 27 and 28.

The frontier days performances have been officially sanctioned by the Rodeo Association of America and the performers will strive for points toward the title of World Champion Cowboy.

Clay Carr, world champion cowboy in 1930 again in 1933, whose specialties are bronc riding and steer roping, has competed in several of the Lakeside jousts and will be on hand at the exposition.

Nearly 30 of the nation's champions, listed since 1929 in the nine divisions of competition, which includes bucking, calf roping, steer wrestling, team roping, bull riding, wild cow milking, relay racing for men and women and bareback riding, are expected to compete on the three day program.

While the champs are busy preparing for the competition, Lakeside officials undertook their task, too, of bringing the "toughest stock in the west" to the fair. Shipments of Texas Longhorns, Mexican steers, the famous Brahmas and the black polled Angus, with hides as sleek as glass, already have arrived at the Lakeside ranch near El Cajon. Other shipments are following.

The rodeo week end also will feature American Legion Days, on June 27 and 28, when Legionnaires throughout Southern California will come to the world's fair.

The Legion program includes a Saturday and Sunday of celebration, climaxed Saturday night by an illuminated parade staged by the 40-8 group and a daylight procession, with bands, drum and bugle corps, drill teams and Auxiliary units on Sunday.

At popular demand, Rosita Royce, famed Dove Dancer, is being held over by the Exposition as part of the gala week end, and will give three performances on Saturday and Sunday, in the House of Entertainment during the afternoon and twice each evening over the South Pool.

NEW CITIZEN IS BROUGHT HOME

Mrs. George Spoulos and infant son have returned home from the Stanford Hospital, where the little fellow was born on June 18.

Have you seen the broad grin and the puffed up chest of the proud father as yet? Well, he asked for it and he got it. We mean the son, of course, and is he a whopper!

Local High School Has Play Program

RADIO STARS AT BADEN COURSE TOMORROW EVE

Irving Kennedy And Nola Day To Be Feature With Dog Races

The July Fourth program at Baden Kennel Club, tomorrow night, will bring two more outstanding National Broadcasting Company stars, who will entertain between races from the orchestra pavilion in the race track grand stand. The entertainment policy at the South San Francisco track has offered the radio fans an opportunity to meet dozens of their favorites face to face this season.

Irving Kennedy, fresh from the New York studios of NBC, will make his first guest appearance on the coast at Baden tomorrow night. Kennedy was one of the coast's most popular singers before he left for the East nearly two years ago. He has returned to the coast for his summer vacation, and consented to sing for the Baden fans.

Co-starred with Kennedy will be Nola Day, the contralto star of "Carefree Carnival," a coast to coast production originating in San Francisco. Miss Day has been a guest artist on some of NBC's biggest national programs.

Feature of the racing program will be the Independence Day Derby which will offer the swiftest greyhounds running seven-sixteenths of a mile.

New Athletic Instructor To Supervise Recreation During Vacation

Through co-operation of the City Council and the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson Union High School the young people of this community are invited to take part in a recreation program at the high school grounds under the supervision of John Matthews, formerly director of athletics at Manteca Union High School.

Mr. Matthews is a recent addition to the coaching staff at the local high school.

The grounds will be open every day during vacation from 10 o'clock a. m. until 5 p. m.

This is an innovation which has grown immensely popular in all sections of the country and should go over in a big way among our young people. Some time ago the plan was inaugurated for the grammar schools and has proven quite successful.

The members of both the Daly City Council and the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson Union High School District are to be commended for affording to the young men and women students and citizens this opportunity of following a recreational program under the supervision of a competent and capable instructor in this field.

HIGH SCHOOL BOARD ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

The Board of Trustees of the Jefferson Union High School District held a special meeting at the school, Wednesday of this week at 12 noon. All members were in attendance.

The meeting had been called for the purpose of organizing the new board, two members having recently been elected in the persons of Mrs. Pearl M. Jones of Daly City and E. A. Weisenburger of Lawndale.

The officers for the preceding year rendered their reports, which were enthusiastically received. Dr. F. P. Callsen and Mrs. Lilah Brown are the retiring members.

The board was organized by the election of Andrew Vireno as chairman and Mrs. Stella Jensen was re-elected secretary.

FANS HAVE HEARTS IN RACING AS RACING

By J. W. MARCHBANK

Encumbrance, excess baggage, impedimenta and any number of other terms could be used in what would be yet another attempt to tell of the havoc wrought by exalted egos in our sport. I went into the game to get fun out of it and even though I try mightily I cannot get the point of view of dividend-mad promoters. All of which is apropos, as we have people of that kind right now up and down the Pacific Coast.

Race followers are tiring of the role of "Old Man of the Sea." They are speaking in no uncertain terms about the anomaly of money grabbers in racing. Why can't the economic despots stay in their place; that is, the market place? The tracks should be reserved exclusively for sportsmen; for those sportsmen to keep on carrying excess baggage, animated though it may be, on their shoulders, season after season, comes a million miles from being the just thing.

The exalted ego attitude: "I'm everything, you're nothing," is altogether in an inharmonious setting out at the races. Sport has never been a selfish thing and never will be. That exaltation is simply a minor demonstration of the megalomania that has upset the countries of Europe. We can very well get along without it, not alone in the governing business, but in sport.

A few words from the high authority, "Nimrod," show that danger from unwanted elements is no new one on the turf. Long ago he wrote:

"Having seen the English turf reach its acme, we should be sorry to witness its decline; but fall it must, if a tighter hand be not held over the whole system appertaining to it. No honourable man can be successful, for any length of time, against a horde of determined depredators as have lately been on our race-courses."

Following the warning history records a "tighter hold" was taken on racing in England and it has survived gloriously to this day.

SALINAS RODEO HAS TOP HANDS

Prominent Riders From All Sections Will Enter Competitions There

Harry Knight, leading all other cowboys in America for the 1936 bronc riding championship under the rules of the Rodeo Association of America, was in Salinas last week to sign up in several events for the California Rodeo to be held there, July 16 to 19. He was accompanied by his bride, Ruth Mix, the daughter of Tom Mix, famous screen and circus cowboy star.

Competing at the Salinas show is always a pleasure, according to Knight, not only because Salinas pays the largest purses of any rodeo in America, but because it is always cool and comfortable there.

"I've never ridden in Salinas on a day when the temperature was over 75 degrees," said the rider, "and for this reason the show is always snappier and the stock livelier."

Knight, who hails from Calgary, Canada, is also one of the five top cowboys leading for the 1936 all around championship. The others, all of whom are expected to compete at the Salinas Rodeo, are Clay Carr, of Visalia, Calif.; Eddie Woods of Emmett, Idaho; Smoky Snyder of Kimberly, British Columbia, and Pete Knight of Denver, Colo.

He was taken to the South San Francisco hospital but pronounced dead upon arrival.

EXPERIENCED HOUSEWIFE CLUB

(By Maude Larue Ives)

One of the most popular of garden vegetables is the cucumber. This vegetable, it is believed, first originated in Northern India at least three thousand years ago. Since that time it has passed from country to country and is now widely cultivated in nearly every part of the temperate zone.

Mrs. L. Lemon, 267 Los Olivos avenue, sent the following recipe for Cucumber Sandwiches:

Two cucumbers, one teaspoon onion juice, one third cup of mayonnaise, salt and pepper, slices of buttered bread. Peel the cucumbers and remove the seeds, if coarse; chop the cucumbers fine and place them in a sieve to drain. To the drained pulp add the onion juice, seasoning and mayonnaise. Spread between slices of buttered whole wheat or graham bread. These cooling sandwiches will soon make themselves popular for the vacation picnic basket.

Mrs. Elaine Hughes, 153 Alexander avenue, joins our club with the following recipe:

LEMON PIE

Four eggs, one and one half cups hot water, two tablespoons cornstarch (rounded), one and one third cups sugar, two lemons (one third cup strained juice), grated rind of one lemon, one tablespoon butter, one fourth teaspoon salt. Mix sugar and cornstarch thoroughly, add hot water and salt; cook in double boiler until mixture thickens. An extra tablespoon of cornstarch may be used in place of one egg. Cover and let steam for ten minutes; add beaten egg yolks, lemon juice, grated rind and butter; cook three minutes, remove from fire; turn into previously baked pastry shell. Cover with meringue and place the pie in a very slow oven until the meringue is browned.

MERINGUE—Beat the egg whites stiff; then add a pinch of salt and one fourth cup of powdered sugar, one tablespoon of lemon juice and beat again. Vanilla flavoring may be added instead of the lemon juice.

WORK EASER

For washing woodwork, use mixture as follows: Two cups kerosene and two cups vinegar. Dirt is easily removed without injuring painted or polished surfaces of walls or casings. Apply mixture with one cloth and wipe dry with another.—From The Farmer's Wife.

To become a member of this club, send a recipe, suggestion or Work Easer to the Experienced Housewife Club, Daly City Record.

LOCAL PEOPLE AT PENINSULA WEDDING

Sunday, June 21, will long be remembered by a number of Daly City people, who enjoyed one of the most beautiful weddings of the season.

Mrs. J. A. Brown of Woodrow street is the mother of the bride, Miss Doris Meikle, who was until in marriage to Mr. James P. McKay of Redwood City. The ceremony took place at the First Methodist Episcopal Church at Redwood City, Rev. William Owen officiating.

Mr. Lawrence Sutton of San Francisco, brother in law of the bridegroom, played Mendelssohn's Wedding March, and throughout the ceremony was played the sweet melody of "I Love You Truly." Preceding the entrance of the bridal party Mr. Ray Tinney of Palo Alto sang "At Dawning."

The beautiful bridal procession was led by Master Glenn Feusier, a nephew of the bride, who was ring-bearer. Next came the sweet little flower girls, Sheila Feusier and Barbara Jean Winter, nieces of the bride and groom respectively. Mrs. Leslie Feusier acted as matron of honor and Miss Jean McKay was the bridesmaid. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, Mr. J. A. Brown.

Following the ceremony a garden reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Leslie Feusier, at Atherton. Here, among a profusion of brightly colored blooms, card tables were set out and about 200 people enjoyed delicious refreshments served in a truly enchanting garden. The bride's table was covered with a white Irish linen tablecloth, with a large wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom as the centerpiece. Bouquets of the matron of honor and the bridesmaid were set on either side. Those present from Daly City were: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. San Mateo County Council meets at South San Francisco, this Friday, July 3. Department Commander Dan Emmitt is expected to be there, so let's give him a good turnout.

The silver set drawing will be the 25th of this month at our hall. Let's have as many tickets sold as possible by our next meeting, Wednesday, July 8, at which time kindly bring in stubs and money collected so far, so that we can check up on results to date and start the final windup. Don't say you can't sell them. The writer sold 33 Saturday evening, June 27, at Mission Post dance and then next morning went on the C. C. Thomas Post seven hour boat ride, had a swell time and sold 65 more tickets. It's for a good cause. Let's get that building debt balance cleaned up!

Be sure to leave Sunday, July 26, open. That's our annual Joint Picnic with Daly City, V. F. W., at Vallemar Park. And what a time we are going to have.

How medical advice is sent to ships at sea is but one part of an exhibit at the San Diego Exposition, given by the federal government.

Your local Bank... Yes...

but it has the financial strength of a great California-wide institution...

From time to time during the past few years, the citizens of some California city have petitioned Bank of America to extend its services into that community. In this way, many of Bank of America's branches have come into being—at the request of the communities they serve.

Once established, a Bank of America branch becomes part of the community—serving it with a local personnel, bringing it a complete "big city" banking service... frequently lending more money in the community than the total of all local deposits.

Augustin of Song Fame Won Acclaim in a Unique Way
Vienna now is celebrating the four-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Augustin, its famous citizen whose memory has long been commemorated by statues, festivities and the song "Ach, Du Lieber Augustin." Augustin won his fame in a unique way. One night while intoxicated he fell asleep in an alley among bodies of victims of the plague. At dawn he awakened in a cemetery trench and the startled gravediggers spread the rumor he had "arisen from the dead."—Collier's Weekly.

The GROSVENOR

The First Declaration

A hundred years before, in 1776, Nathaniel Bacon (above) signed a famous "Declaration of the People of Virginia" wherein the king's governor was vigorously arraigned. Bacon led a rebellion against royal misrule (he is shown above at the burning of Jamestown) but it collapsed when he died suddenly.

Millions Yearly View Declaration

MORE than a million patriotic pilgrims a year pause before a marble shrine on the second floor of the Library of Congress to gaze with reverent eyes at a fading document—sheltered in a coating of gelatin to prevent its further injury—which is a certain Declaration of Independence signed in the city of Philadelphia on July 4, 1776.

Most of the signatures, writes Elizabeth Ellicott Poe in the Washington Post, are indistinguishable at the present time but on the front of the top row of names is a name written in large script. "John Hancock," it reads, and the historically minded remember that when that sturdy Massachusetts patriot bent over to put his signature to this fateful paper he remarked: "I'll write it large so King George can read it without his spectacles."

John Hancock, one of the richest men of Boston town, had much to lose by his stand. It was no idle gesture to him, this adoption of the cause of the colonies. His properties were to be forfeited to the crown for what would be considered an act of treason but John Hancock did not hesitate because of this. He was a native of Braintree, therefore a friend and neighbor, no doubt, of John Adams, who was afterward to be the second President of the United States.

The adopted son of an uncle, Thomas Hancock, who left him a large fortune, young Hancock was a graduate of Harvard in 1754, and was one of a numerous family of Hancocks in the vicinity. As a member of the Committee of Patriots appointed after the massacre in Boston asking the British to withdraw, Hancock had counseled every honorable means to avoid the conflict impending. At the funeral of the slain he preached an oration in which he flayed the cowardice of the British officers and men in slaughtering unarmed men.

When the Continental Congress was formed John Hancock represented Massachusetts therein and in 1775-1777 served as its president.

In his spacious Boston mansion meanwhile Lord Percy, Britain's pet, held sway. A price was put on the head of John Hancock as well, which only amused the game patriot. Hancock was so eager to fight that he let it be known that he was willing to face the hardships of the field. But congress was wise and kept him in his post as its presiding officer.

After his Revolutionary service was over, Hancock was elected the first governor of Massachusetts, which office he held from 1787 until his death.

John Adams spoke of him, as a "clever fellow, a bit spoiled by a legacy." He left no descendants and so busy were his heirs in distributing his property after his death that they did not erect a tombstone. Massachusetts in later years repaired this omission and a monument now stands over his grave in the Old Granary Burying ground, on Tremont street, in Boston, not far from the grave of his friend, Samuel Adams, another Massachusetts Revolutionary patriot.

Printed the Declaration

The Declaration of Independence was printed on the press of John Dunlap during the night of July 4, 1776, in Philadelphia.

When the Fourth Was Noisiest Day

LOOKING back from the security of our present Fourth of July saneness to the early 1900s when all Fourths were insane, we are compelled to admit that we did pretty well in those days considering the limited means we had of being insane compared to the advantages we enjoy now in our state of scientific sanity, states a writer in the Kansas City Star.

To a boy of the Insane Fourth era, the Fourth of July ranked only with Christmas in fiscal importance. On Christmas we knew it was 192 days to the Fourth, and on the Fourth we knew we had only 173 days until Christmas. Christmas savings funds

On the night before the Fourth, the children began showing strange symptoms, especially an unnatural willingness to go to bed early. That gesture was deceiving and specious; the children were not interested in getting their rightful rest before a strenuous day, but were insuring themselves against the sad accident of sleeping past three o'clock in the morning. Any boy who wasn't out by three o'clock in the morning shooting firecrackers under the respective windows of the pastor, the school principal and the truancy officer was deemed a sissy and not fit for human companionship the rest of the day.

The opening ceremony was the only one unanimously attended. From that time on, too many things were happening to engage the entire juvenile attention at one time. There was the sunrise salute of 21 guns, engineered by the village blacksmith who placed one great anvil upon another with giant powder in between, touched off from a daring proximity with a red hot iron. Usually the nether anvil grew very hot before the 21 salutes were fired and this was one of the causes of many distressing accidents in the insane era. At ten o'clock there was the rendition of the "Star-Spangled Banner," led by the band and assisted by the ladies of the G. A. R., whose voices sometimes didn't quite make the high notes; and the reading of the Declaration of Independence by the mayor.

Hostilities usually were suspended at noon for the community dinner in the city park, where fried chicken, watermelon and lemonade from a barrel engaged the general attention until satiety was reached. The afternoon was a dizzy succession of patriotic and athletic events, wherein the popular candidate for congress, vied with a greased pole, a pie-eating contest and a ball game, for popular attention. If the honorable candidate wound up with thirty in his audience, and the ball game wound up in a fight with victory for the home club, the celebration was considered a success. The only remaining item of importance was the stupendous fireworks display, staged on a hay wagon at the north end of Main street; an event which sometimes was rained out, and sometimes prematurely ignited by over-zealous manipulators, resulting in bad burns duly chronicled in the vital statistics column of the home paper in the succeeding issue.

Such was the Fourth of July celebration in the early 1900s, fraught, as one may see, with great dangers later minimized by the sane Fourth campaign.

Fourth Time for Holiday Parties

THE Fourth of July, the most important holiday of the summer season, while still of great historical importance, is celebrated in a very nonchalant and sane manner. To the majority of persons it means a lazy day spent in the country or at the beach, with dinner served picnic-fashion, under the open sky. Or, another popular method of celebration, writes Ethel K. Ehlen in the Detroit News, is to invite a few friends in for luncheon, cocktails or dinner—very informal and served on the porch or terrace.

Buffet service continues in popularity, and is equally suitable for entertaining in town or country. Even a picnic menu may go buffet style these days, and it is a very satisfactory manner of service. If this version is selected for celebration in the country or at the beach, paper table cloths, dishes, spoons and forks, simplify matters considerably. And, the setting may be just as attractive as that in which the conventional china and silver are used. A red, white and blue color scheme may be easily arranged, as patriotic appointments in a number of different versions are available.

If the hostess desires something a bit more formal in character, there is a red satin cannon centerpiece, which may be filled with surprise favors, and red satin firecrackers as candy or salted nut containers.

For the children's Fourth of July party, red, white and blue snappers and a table centerpiece consisting of a blue patent leather bag, tied with the patriotic tri-colors and filled with surprise packages wrapped in cellophane, is timely and a little unusual. This clever bag of favors is also nice as a gift to a small child.

Nautical decorations in red, white and blue are cool and summery looking and an innovation in patriotic embellishing for the table. Frosted beverages may be invitingly served in tall crystal glasses decorated with navy blue anchors, ships, and the like, the red note being supplied by the cherry garnish, and repeated in the tiny sandwiches which may be cut in the shape of a firecracker. Ice cream and ices, so important in the American summer menu, will be available for the important holiday in suitable color schemes and designs, and may be packed in dry ice for carrying to the beach as dessert for the picnic lunch.

Numerous handy equipment is available for both cooking under the open sky, or adequately packing picnic menus which have been prepared at home. One of the additions to this already large family is a miniature stove, so constructed that paper may be used as the fuel for the fire; or, twigs for such things as steak and other foods that require a greater amount of heat.

Wicker picnic baskets, with or without insulating qualities; long-handle forks, broilers and frying pans; thermos jugs and bottles; all help to make picnicking more delightful.

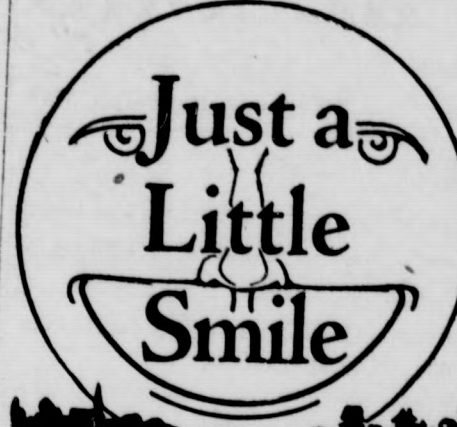

A perfectly grand kind of picnic basket is a kit of leather, simulated leather or wicker, completely equipped with utensils, china and cutlery, and plenty of separate compartments for packing sandwiches, salads, relishes, desserts and so on.

Cellophane is a wonderful picnic aid for wrapping practically any kind of picnic edibles. Paper table mats, table cloths and napkins, are fashioned of white and designed in such a manner they have the appearance of linen. Paper cups have gone more attractive and practical too—late versions are equipped with handles, which makes drinking an easier process. They, as well as plates and serving dishes are patterned after china, having a smart gold band as the effective decorative medium.

The Fourth of July celebration in the modern manner may take the form of a picnic in quite primitive fashion, or in a more pretentious style, like that just described. Or, if one does not yearn for the open road and sunny beach, the holiday may be gloriously celebrated with informal entertaining at home, with appointments and decorations in patriotic themes. Any of these interpretations are timely and in keeping with the modern scheme of things.

DALY CITY DEFEATS SAN MATEO BLUES

Fitzgerald's Team Outthit And Outgamed By Steady Play Of Our Home Boys.

The fans were treated to plenty of thrills and excitement at the ball field of the San Mateo City Park, last Sunday, when the Daly City Tanforans humbled the San Mateo Blues in the second game of the State League pennant chase second half.

The Blues won the first half and their first game of the second half with Santa Cruz on Sunday, June 21, and were confident of another victory.

The crowd was treated to some fine fielding by both teams; but the outstanding feature was the sparkling, heads-up playing of our own Johnny Vasquez at the short patch. Although charged with two misuses, nothing seemed too difficult for this stellar fielding star. He went to the right and left and speared hard chances with equal ease. Burke's playing at first also merits special mention.

The umpiring mis-feature of the day was the play on which Ump Barnhorn called Nielsen safe at second before he had even reached Vasquez on the base line where the latter took Volkman's peg to touch the runner. Such inefficient work by the arbiters is certainly not conducive to the good of the game or its popularity.

FIRST INNING

Daly City—Caligari out on a grounder to Nielsen to Stoeven. Filgate was retired on a long foul far out on the third base line. Jacobson drove a hit over second. Volkman was out, Gould to Stoeven. One hit, no runs, no errors.

San Mateo—Tadevich popped to Filgate. Nielsen drew a base on balls. Stewart went out, Vasquez to Burke, the short stop making a difficult stop of a hard ground ball to his right. Anti was safe on a fumble by Vasquez. Stoeven struck out. No hits, no runs, 1 error.

SECOND INNING

Daly City—Palmini was out, Nielsen to Stoeven. Vasquez singled to right. Hailer out, Gould to Stoeven. Burke out, Anti to Stoeven. One hit, no runs, no errors.

San Mateo—Sobrero was hit by the pitcher. Vasquez made a sensational stop of Blethen's hit behind second base and threw him out at first. Lister got a two base hit to right, scoring Sobrero. Gould got a single to right, scoring Lister. Tadevich drove a grounder to Vasquez, who threw him out to Burke. When Gould attempted to go on to third on the play Burke whipped the ball to Palmini and Gould was run down for the third out, Palmini to Vasquez to Palmini. Two hits, 2 runs, no errors.

THIRD INNING

Daly City—Sturtevant walked. Caligari drove a hit over second. Filgate out, Tadevich to Stoeven. Jacobson reached first when Tadevich fumbled his grounder. Volkman hitting in the clean up position smashed a two base hit to right, scoring Sturtevant and Caligari. Palmini hit one over second, sending home Jacobson and Volkman. Vasquez safe on first when Lister dropped his fly. Hailer struck out. Burke also fanned. Three hits, 4 runs, 2 errors.

San Mateo—Nielsen hit a two bagger to right. Stewart out on a line drive to Palmini. Anti fled out to Hailer. Stoeven safe on Vasquez high throw to first, Nielsen scoring. Sobrero fled out to Hailer. One hit, 1 run, 1 error.

FOURTH INNING

Daly City—Blethen robbed Sturtevant of a two bagger by a running one hand stab of his line drive to left center. Caligari flew out to Blethen. Stewart nabbed Filgate's fly to left. No hits, no runs, no errors.

San Mateo—Blethen struck out. Lister drove a hit through short. Jacobson caught Gould's fly to right. Tadevich flew to Hailer. One hit, no runs, no errors.

FIFTH INNING

Daly City—Jacobson walked. Volkman out, Tadevich to Stoeven. Palmini out, Anti to Stoeven. Vasquez flew to Blethen. No hits, no runs, no errors.

San Mateo—Nielsen fled to Caligari. Stewart went out to Burke, unassisted. Burke took care of Anti's foul fly. No hits, no runs no errors.

SIXTH INNING

Daly City—Hailer out, Nielsen to Stoeven. Burke singled over second, but was out on Sturtevant's grounder, Anti to Nielsen. Sturtevant safe on a fielder's choice. Tadevich retired Sturtevant on Filgate's grounder. Two hits, no runs, no errors.

San Mateo—Stoeven out, Vasquez to Burke. Sobrero reach first when Vasquez made a high throw. Blethen popped out to Sturtevant. Lister singled to right and was out on Gould's hit, Vasquez to Filgate. One hit, no runs, 1 error.

SEVENTH INNING

Daly City—Jacobson grounded out, Anti to Stoeven. Volkman popped to Anti. Palmini drove a hit through the left field hedge for two bases. Vasquez out, Nielsen to Stoeven. One hit, no runs, no errors.

San Mateo—Tadevich got a single to left and went to second on Nielsen's bunt. Stewart safe when Caligari dropped his fly to center. Anti hit to Vasquez, who threw out Tadevich at the plate and Volkman doubled Anti at first to Burke. Stoeven was out on a sensational jumping catch of his line drive by Vasquez. One hit, no runs, 1 error.

EIGHTH INNING

Daly City—Hailer fled to Lister. Burke dropped a Texas League single back of second base. Sturtevant singled to center and was froced out. Second on Caligari's grounder, Nielsen to Anti, who doubled Caligari at first. Two hits, no runs, no errors.

San Mateo—Sobrero struck out. Blethen got a single when his hit to Filgate took a bad hop. Blethen was out at second and Lister was doubled at first on a snappy play—Burke to Vasquez to Burke. One hit, no runs, no errors.

NINTH INNING

Daly City—Filgate out, Nielsen to Stoeven. Jacobson beat out his hit to deep short. Volkman walked and was forced at second on a grounder by Palmini, Nielsen to Anti. Vasquez grounded out, Tadevich to Stoeven. One hit, no runs, no errors.

San Mateo—Fitzgerald, batting for Gould, was safe when his pop fly fell safe. At this stage Manager Volkman showed his sportsmanship by allowing Gould to return to the game to run for Fitzgerald. Gould was forced at second on Tadevich's grounder, Vasquez to Filgate. Tadevich stole second. Nielsen sent a fly to Jacobson in right, who doubled Tadevich at second on a throw to Vasquez. No hits, no runs, no errors.

ALCAZAR SHOWS WINNING COMEDY

Matt Briggs comes to San Francisco direct from New York City to appear in the role of Patsy in "Three Men on a Horse," which Henry Duffy is bringing into the Alcazar Theater for a limited stay beginning Sunday afternoon. Briggs has scored such a tremendous hit throughout the East in this play that Mr. Duffy prevailed upon him to come to San Francisco and join the road show company of this internationally famous comedy sensation.

Chester Clute, who will be seen in the role of Irwin Trowbridge, who writes jingles for a living and, for pastime, dopes the horse races to such good results that he is kidnapped and held in a hotel room by three race track touts and forced to pick the winners of the horse races for their benefit, has also been playing the same role throughout the Eastern cities for over a year. Other well known players in the cast will be Frank Milan, Kernan Cripps, Bernedene Hayes, Jean Reno, Lurene Tuttle, William Jeffery, Phoebe Clark, John Alexander, Eddie Waller, Edward Colebrook and several others.

SAN BRUNO BEATS REDWOOD CITY

The San Bruno Tanforans defeated the Redwood City nine, 9 to 7, last Sunday.

The game was again featured by the heavy hitting of the Tanforans, Wilkins getting four out of five—a home run, double and two singles. Bogle hit a home run, his third in two games. Farr accounted for his seventh straight hit.

The pitching of Cavaglia in the pinches showed he is fast returning to his old form.

WORKER FINALLY GETS HIS PLACE IN THE SUN

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

Going back some years we find Cato saying that the man who has no time to be idle is a slave. That's exactly what President Roosevelt discovered — men and women had no time to devote to that mind-building and body-building essential; leisure. Why? Because all their time was taken up in looking for work.

The President's vision extends far beyond giving jobs to all hands. The ever-present problem that he confronts is just as vital. What are the people going to do with their "spare" time? He is working on that proposition unceasingly. The least we can do is to let him have four more years in office.

The keynote to the whole program of economic security and social justice that the President is trying to work out, despite all the shrieking and weeping of the financial despots that have ruled the country so long, is shown in the order in which the activities of our national life are listed by the New Deal:

- (1) Labor.
- (2) Farming and mining.
- (3) Merchandising.

Economists did not have to do much thinking to find out that all wealth has its source in Nature and in Labor; that is, man simply makes use of what our old "Mother" has given us, either deep in the earth or nearer the surface. Workers, such as you and me, either with brain or brawn, or both, increase the happiness of all by our endeavors. The exploiters, or "organized greed," as the chief executive has often described them, have no place in such an ordered society.

Lou's XI of France, a hard worker from boyhood all through his eventful career, was implacable when it came to being obeyed, but what is more important steadfastly carried out his belief that all service should be well paid.

In some quarters there is a feeling that we should not abandon our treadmill attitude too quickly. So much the better, as we learned long ago that the orderly processes of evolution are better than sudden changes in the economic structure. President Roosevelt has placed emphasis many times on the necessity of opportunities for the development of what he calls the spiritual side of our natures. Such development is only possible if we are free from the worry of ever seeking means of a bare living. The "abundant life" is his aim.

A short time ago, N. Boukharine, Thomas Mann, Jules Romaine, Karl Capek and other European writers exchanged views as to the expansion of the intellectual interests of the "average man," somewhat along the line being pursued by the President in our own country.

"The new man" is the generally accepted term applied to a human being when he has been released from the thralldom of machinery and is no longer pressed by the problem of his next meal.

Pierre Paraf, in the Paris publication, "Les Nouvelles Littéraires," has an especially illuminating interview with Boukharine about "L'Homme nouveau." The central idea, almost identical with the position of President Roosevelt, is that production is only the means of bringing humanity to a higher level of living than ever before, of hastening the coming of an era of abundance for not the few, but for all, with plenty of leisure for the development of the mind and soul.

One thing to come is the escape of the people from being turned into machines by tending machines; in a word, civilization is to be directed in such a way the spirit of creation will be aroused once more. Men and women will once more have chances to use their God-given right of initiative.

One of the great advances, and we can see it coming already in the United States, will be the smoothing out of the differences of city workers and farmers, and even the destruction of the abyss between intellectual and manual workers.

It doesn't take much thought to figure out the new party, with Congressman Lemke at its head, will be used by reactionary interests to try to bring about the defeat of President Roosevelt. As pointed out by more than one student of governmental affairs lately the Union Party, as it is called, is making common cause with the "money changers" against the President. It has been aptly said there is nothing to be gained by chasing rainbows and that is all the new party can offer the electors.

LESSON SERMON OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Thou shalt have no other gods before me." These words from Exodus comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, July 5, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "God." Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "Woe unto him that saith to the wood, Awake; to the dumb stone, Arise, it shall teach! Behold, it is laid over with gold and silver, and there is no breath at all in the midst of it. But the Lord is in his holy temple: Let all the earth keep silence before him" (Hab. 2: 19, 20).

The following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: Question.—What is God? Answer.—God is incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love. Question.—Are these terms synonymous? Answer.—They are. They refer to one absolute God. They are also intended to express the nature, essence, and wholeness of Deity" (p. 465).

BUCK IN RACE FOR SUPERVISOR

Having been for years interested in government in San Mateo County I am willing to devote my time and such energy and ability as I possess to that purpose. To that end I have filed my nomination as a candidate for Supervisor from the Fifth District.

I have been signally honored by the citizens of Burlingame who have elected me to their City Council for three successive terms and I have been Mayor for the greater portion of that time.

The economy and efficiency we have attained in our City government can be repeated in our County administration.

Nationally we are on the verge of economic recovery, and prosperity hitherto unknown. Such conditions require, calm, sober judgment in our public affairs even more than when conditions are the reverse. Lack of control in public spending as well as in business spending contributed to the depression from which we are just emerging with such bright hope. We of San Mateo County have much of which to be proud, not the least of which is the calibre of our citizenship. Our government should be fully representative of that citizenry, which I believe is second to none.

Inspired by these thoughts and with a sense of honor in so doing I present my candidacy for election to the position to which I aspre. Respectfully submitted,

C. A. BUCK.

MOTTO "STOP THE SUMMER SLUMP"

A unique Sunday School Campaign is under way at the Church of the Nazarene in Daly City.

The "Summer Slump" has been a ban to the Sunday School for many years. This year they decided to do something about it. Consequently the motto "Slap the Summer Slump" was adopted.

A committee made banners and put them up in the church. These banners express the central purpose of the campaign. Some of them say, "If you have to be absent from Sunday School, provide a substitute." This will prevent the annual decrease in attendance. The Sunday School is supporting the campaign heartily, according to Mr. John R. Young, superintendent.

"Wasting my time," Barry told Harwood, the next morning, in the city editor's busy office at The Globe. "My time, and nearly a hundred dollars of the paper's money. Winslow had it straight. The Fane girl was strutting her stuff from one o'clock until long after the murder."

"Well, it's good to be sure."

"Yes, and I'm mighty sure now. Every step I've taken since our last meeting leads right up to Mrs. Kelly."

Harwood looked at him quizzically. "Step No. 1?" he asked.

"My advertisement offering a reward for the number of the cab that killed that artist's wife."

"You don't mean that you got it?"

Triumphantly, Barry opened his notebook.

"There it is," he said. "026017. The figures under it are the number of the driver who gave me the information."

Ernie copied both numbers.

"Swell work," he commented. "Anything else?"

"Lots. This fellow had a passenger who got out at Twenty-third street around midnight. When the woman was killed—two hours later—the driver bumped into him again in Sixteenth street, very much rattled, and looking as though he'd committed a murder."

"Any description?"

"Rather a vague one. That doesn't matter. I'm sure, in my own mind, that this passenger was the caller Kelly expected, and that he wasn't the murderer. I'm equally sure that he knew murder had been committed."

"Let's call it a mere supposition. In that case, Kelly was killed around two o'clock. At two o'clock, Mrs. Kelly wasn't in Harlem."

"How do you know that?"

Barry's answer was a full report of his adventures of Saturday. "Without Step No. 1, Step No. 2 means nothing. In other words, if Kelly'd been killed at midnight—which is the theory everyone's worked on—Mrs. Kelly's alibi would have been hopeless."

Harwood joined his finger-tips in an almost prayerful gesture. "I wish we could find the guy who looked 'as though he'd committed a murder.'"

Barry made no reply.

"That's always the trouble," the city editor went on. "What kind of a skate is this Luis Morano? Tough?"

"On the contrary. Cries over a mammy song."

"There's a heap of 'em do," Harwood philosophized.

"He's a Southerner, with a soft voice, and a funny impediment in his speech?"

"That so?" Harwood inquired.

"Where is this Coconut Bar?"

Barry told him, and promptly returned to Mrs. Kelly. "How the deuce are we going to prove what she did after she got home?"

"That's up to you," Ernie said. "I'm off on a new tack now." His eyes twinkled. "One that would go a long way toward establishing your theory of coincidence. Gosh, I'd give my two uppers to break this story within the next week or two."

Thursday evening, Barry spent in his room, mostly thinking. He had telephoned Pat twice since their luncheon together, and found her enthusiastic over her guests. "There's nothing wrong with the boy," she declared; "nothing that a few weeks out here won't cure. He's on the beach now, with his mother."

Judge Hambidge had taken to the little fellow at once. Almost like having a grandchild. It kept his mind off his worries. And no one could see Peggy, being brave, but always staring at nothing, always thinking of what might happen, without pity that warmed into affection. "She's really an awfully good sort," Pat said, from Southampton. "I like her a lot. When are you coming out?"

"Tomorrow, I hope."

"Well, we'll expect you for dinner."

That breach was healed, all right. Pat had called him "the scum of the earth." In the same hour, he remembered again, he had told her he loved her. As to that, she still maintained silence. "That's the kindest thing she could do," Barry thought. "A Judge's daughter, and I—"

Barry had learned not to think of the future. "Nor heed the rumble of a distant drum," as his own father had put it. Just for now, it was pleasant to be somebody who knew Pat—and he wanted to take that awful look out of the other girl's eyes. "That oughtn't to be hard now," Barry thought. "If I could get that Filipino to talk. He knows when Mrs. Kelly came home, and he's probably got a darned good idea what she did afterward. If we could get to that Oriental—"

At which point, Evans came, and he had been drinking.

"Sorry, sir," he apologized, taking the nearest chair. Evans had none of Willetts' compunctions. "Sorry, sir, but I've been having dinner with Kelly's chauffeur."

"Liquid nourishment?"

"Yes, sir," Evans admitted, sheepishly. "But that was the only chance I had with that Irishman."

"Well?"

"Well, I drove Miss Hambidge, and Mrs. Rogers, and the boy to Southampton, like you said. And I started back today. It was nearly eight when I made the garage, and I was good and hungry."

"There's a decent cafe a few yards away. Nolan—that's Kelly's chauffeur—was sitting at a table, with a load he ought to've gone twice for."

Evans smiled.

"Ed had a grudge on women in general. And he was chowed plenty. I hadn't been with him long when he opened up on Mrs. Kelly. There's something queer between her and this Filipino, he says."

"Charlie?"

"That isn't his name, but let it go at that. And, when Ed said 'queer,' he didn't mean anything wrong. Just some kind of an understanding. Mrs. Kelly's been giving the Chink coin and jewelry, regular. Charlie showed him some of it, Ed says."

"Well, the night of the murder Nolan drives Kelly to the Coconut Bar. And home—at nine o'clock. When he gets out at his house, Kelly says, 'Put the car in the garage. Mrs. Kelly's gone up to Harlem, and I won't need you 'til tomorrow morning.'"

"Ed obeys orders. He goes back to Kelly's and sits in the kitchen. This Chink is in the butler's pantry, getting a tray ready. And, while the two of 'em are down there, the damnedest row starts upstairs—"

"Rogers and Kelly."

"No. This was around nine o'clock. Mrs. Kelly. She was laying Mike out so you could have heard it a block."

Ernie Copied Both Numbers.

Well, this goes on for ten or fifteen minutes, and then the bell from the parlor rings. Charlie starts upstairs with the tray. He gets up two steps, when Kelly appears at the head of the flight. "Come up here, you lousy spy. Come up here while I tell you where you get off!"

"Charlie sets down the tray, and goes. Nolan follows into the pantry, and has a stiff drink. Then he sits down again, and listens to Kelly laying out the Chink."

"Could he hear anything? Words, I mean?"

"No. Just Kelly's voice. Mrs. Kelly was out of it. She'd gone to her room. Nolan thinks. But Kelly made noise enough for two. And, after another ten minutes or so, Charlie comes back. "I'm fired," Charlie says—in the Chink lingo. "I got to get out. That blankety-blank told me to go quick, or he'd kill me."

"Are you going?" Nolan asks.

"Sure," the Chink says. "I got to get my money first. He chased me out of the room when I asked for it, but I'm going back," the Chink says.

"Nolan then took the cook to a movie, and when they get back, everything's quiet. It's after midnight, because these two walked home. Kelly's upstairs, talking to somebody, and the Chink's in his room, packing and muttering to himself something frightful. So Nolan says good night to the cook, who goes into her room, and then Nolan slips into the pantry, and takes another shot of that hooch."

"What hooch?"

"The rye whiskey I was telling you about."

Barry sprang from his chair.

"The rye whiskey?"

"Sure. And it was in a cut-glass decanter."

"Are you certain?"

"Nolan is. And he's just as certain that it was still in the pantry when the guy upstairs left."

"Why?"

"Because he heard the front door close ten seconds before he went out the back way."

"Gosh!" Barry exclaimed. "That puts it up to Mrs. Kelly, all right."

Evans shook his head, drunkenly.

"Mrs. Kelly wasn't home," he said. "She went to her sister's after the high-jinks in Harlem, and Nolan got there the next morning, before they called the police. There were only three people in that house after the guy went who was visiting Kelly—Kelly himself, cook, and a mighty mad Chinaman."

"Filipino."

"Whatever he was, he was mad, and the decanter that killed Kelly was downstairs with him until just about the time Kelly was killed."

"Thanks," Barry nodded. "I think we've got something."

"Oh, I forgot to give you this. It came—Southampton—just as I was leaving," said Evans.

"This" was a cablegram. Alone, in the smoke-filled room, Barry opened it. Nine words. "Father and I sailing for home Sunday. Love, Mother."

For an instant, he stood, frozen, the wire in his hand.

Directly before him, an evening newspaper lay open on the table.

"Out-going passenger and mail ships," he read. "Sailing tomorrow—Steamship Oranje Nassau. For Port-au-Prince, La Guayra, Curacao, Maracaibo, Carupano, and Pampatar. I'm on my way to one of 'em tomorrow!"

CHAPTER IX

Barry's panic was short-lived. Between him and the sailing list had come a vision of Peggy, with beaded lashes screening eyes forever staring at nothing.

"I can't do it," he said to himself. "I can't run away and leave that girl in the lurch. Nor Pat either. I've tackled this job, and I've got to go through with it."

"Anyway, it begins to look as though the end were in sight. If Ridder sails Sunday—"

He went back to the shipping news. "If Ridder sails Sunday, that's the Bremen and she's due here the following Saturday. That gives us eight days. I'd better see Winslow."

He called Peter next morning, but the attorney was in the country. "Left last night," his secretary reported, "and won't be back until Monday."

Barry had a dinner engagement at Southampton. "We'll start things humming on Monday," Barry told himself. "I've got my house to put in order, too. Ridder's house, that is."

Evans telephoned around ten, and before noon they were on their way to Southampton. "My last week-end with Pat," he was thinking. "Where'll I be next Saturday? Out of luck, and out of a job. In jail, maybe, and in the newspapers. That's my finish with—everybody."

There was a new atmosphere at the Hambidge's. Pat had been right in telling Jack that he'd "cheer my father up a lot." "They're building a railway on the beach," she laughed, when the boy—sunburned, and active—joined them before dinner.

"You must go to bed now," Pat bade him, "if we're to take our ride in the morning. We have a canter every day before breakfast," she added to Barry, ringing for a maid to take charge of the youngster. "I discovered the dearest little pony in the village, and the man brings it over at nine o'clock, with another horse for me. Jack's getting to be a regular Buffalo Bill."

The strained expression of a week ago was beginning to disappear from the face of Judge Hambidge. But the greatest difference was in the boy's mother. Naturally imitative, as Barry had remarked, she had been quick to observe and emulate Pat's moderation with make-up. Her speech, too, had lost all but an occasional inadvertent reference to "guys" and "dames." She had stopped staring into space. "What's the news about Jack?" she asked, quite calmly.

"Free next week," Barry declared ringingly.

At the dinner table, in spite of herself, Peg caught some of the contagion of Barry's new confidence. Nolan's story sounded like the solution of everything, they agreed. "We've got to get Jack out before Saturday," Barry said. "His father'll be home then."

Both women looked up at him.

"What'll happen to you?" Peggy asked.

"The main question," Barry urged, "is what's going to happen to Peg. And Jack. And Jacky."

"We'll meet that when it comes," Peggy returned, steadily. "But now I'm worried about you."

She excused herself early, with the plain purpose of leaving Barry with Pat. But the Judge stayed on. His legally trained mind had been busy with the Nolan disclosures.

"If Mrs. Kelly slept at her sister's, why didn't she say so to you? It would've been her best alibi."

"Yes, but it would have involved admitting that she'd had a run-in with Kelly."

"That's true," Hambidge admitted. "But Nolan was drunk last night, you say. And some parts of his story simply don't hold water. I don't believe there was anything 'queer' between Mrs. Kelly and the Filipino. Kelly's finding that out wouldn't account for his calling the man a 'lousy spy,' would it?"

"No," Barry retorted. "But listen. If the Chink was a 'lousy spy,' he got paid for it, didn't he? Wouldn't that explain Mrs. Kelly's giving him 'coin and jewelry'? And everything else? The Chink's reporting Betty Barclay's message, and all the rest of it? I tell you, this story's as straight as a string. Betty Barclay went on the road with her show about the time Mrs. Kelly sued for divorce. I found that out some time ago. She got back the day of the murder, and phoned Kelly. Mrs. Kelly learned of that from the Chink, and lit into Mike. Then Mike lit into the Chink, and the Chink killed him. I think we can prove that."

The Judge shook his head.

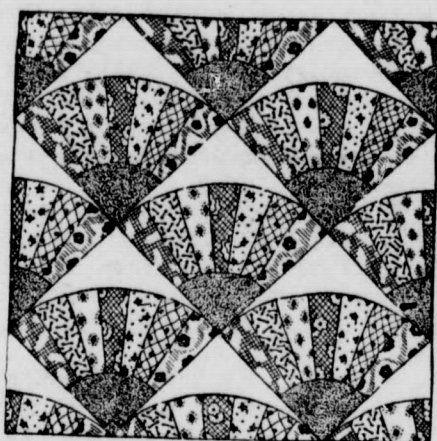

"Anyway, it certainly establishes reasonable doubt of Jack's guilt."

"They can't convict Jack," the Judge insisted. "Peter says so, and I've never known Peter to be wrong when he made an assertion like that. But acquittal means waiting for the trial, and waiting for the trial means that Jack will still be in jail when his father returns."

Pat remained silent, but, the next morning, on the beach, she drew Barry away from the little group engaged in railroad construction.

Edward Henry was born a slave at Culpepper, Ga., in 1784, one year after the United States became a separate and independent nation.

He was eighty when, with all other slaves, he received his freedom in the year 1864, and after that he lived for thirty-six years, dying in 1901 at the age of 116. He had five wives, marrying the last when he was just over eighty, and by her he had thirteen children. In all, his children numbered either fifty-nine or sixty. HIGGINS CANDIDATE FOR ASSEMBLY

Robert A. Higgins, in announcing his candidacy for the assembly from the Twenty-ninth Assembly District has issued the following statement:

In seeking this office, I do so with the sincere desire to serve the whole of San Mateo County.

I am not seeking a "Party" office nor a "Party" victory. My list of sponsors from both major parties, I am sure, will convince you that I am not the candidate of any clique or special interest.

I propose to base my campaign primarily upon issues of vital interest and importance to San Mateo County, issues on which I can actually express the county's wishes in the Assembly, if elected.

For example, I favor a social security program either State or Federal that will adequately care for our old people, for the infirm and the victims of depressions.

Turning to more strictly county affairs, I favor the strictest enforcement of traffic regulations on our state highway to reduce the appalling and needless accident toll on them. I believe, and I think you will agree, that full enforcement of state traffic laws by state traffic officers is by far the most effective of all accident preventatives. On the subject of traffic regulation, I believe also that state officers assigned to patrol highways in San Mateo County should be San Mateo County citizens.

WHAT OUR DALY CITY AUXILIARY IS ACCOMPLISHING

Brief History Of Daly City Unit No. 410, American Legion Auxiliary, For 1935-36.

(Grace J. Hill, Historian)

Although this has been a short term of only ten months, it has been a very successful one.

For our disabled veterans in the hospitals we tried to bring them comfort and cheer by visiting them, giving parties, furnishing cigarettes, toothpaste, puzzles, books and other things at Fort Riley. We made and sent three bed pads, two bed jackets, three chair robes and five chair cushions for Livermore Hospital. Several veteran-made articles were sold.

Our membership has passed all previous records. We now have 85 members. We held one initiation on December 4.

Our Juniors have been most outstanding. Their appearance in parades and exhibition drills has its reward in the silver cup won on May 17 at the Field Day of Sunset Post No. 400. They made cards and favors for the veterans at Christmas time and scrap books for the Community Hospital.

The Americanism program was carried out very satisfactorily. Members in the County Drill Team appeared in many civic and patriotic affairs. Our colors were in several parades.

Our president presented the American Legion Auxiliary Scholarship Award to the outstanding graduate of the Jefferson School District on December 19 and again on June 11. Several needy veterans' families were given relief through our child welfare work.

November 16 we held our Annual Past Commanders and Past Presidents Banquet. This is always an important and enjoyable affair. March 14 we celebrated our fifth birthday with our Post. We have gone a long way since our organization.

Our greatest undertaking was the "Country Fair," which proved most successful. For weeks everyone worked and planned. The day came and when closing time arrived we were nearly all sold out. Over $115 was cleared.

Our Poppy Sale was greater this year than before. We sold 1050 poppies. The Junior Girls and Sons were a great help.

Memorial Day was properly observed with other organizations. For the first time we decorated the grave of one of our own comrades, who passed away this spring.

We have endeavored to carry out the program as directed by Department. We have reached new records. We hope to accomplish more next year.

FAREWELL PARTY ON DEPARTURE

Mrs. Elsie Ireton of Winchester street entertained at a luncheon, Wednesday of this week, honoring Mrs. Marie Gaiter, who recently purchased a new home in San Carlos. The affair was in the nature of a farewell party.

The honor guest was presented a handsome lawn chair.

The guests included Mesdames Marie Gater, Ethel Dorn, Elsie Lewis, Louise Refatti, Ida Hellman, Nettie Rice, Nancy Hurley, Elsie Ireton and Camille Beckett.

MORE RESIDENTS ARRIVE IN TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. M. Costa and family of San Francisco moved to Daly City, Saturday of last week, having purchased the home of Mrs. Lillian Landini on Winchester street.

Mr. Costa is the proprietor of the fruit and vegetable department in the Milo Market.

Be Careful In Parking

Always drive your car on to the shoulder of the road when you have to fix a tire. And at night, always be sure that all of your lights are on. You tail light isn't enough. Futher, don't stand in front of the lights.

Recently, a man was crushed to death between two cars. He had stopped on the road to fix a tire and, standing in the rear of his car, he blotted out his tail light. Another motorist coming around a curve did not see the machine until it was too late. A horrible accident, but one that could have been prevented by a little forethought.

Don't place too much trust in approaching motorists. They may think they are going to miss you, but you can't be too certain.

RADIO INTERFERENCE

Radio experts report that static, or electrical interference, sometimes develops in a car radio as a result of certain parts of the car, other than the spark plugs, accumulating charges of electricity.

Such charges produce a spark which creates radio interference.

Juvenile Work Wins Praise

Superior Judge Aylett R. Cotton's method of handling juvenile cases before his San Mateo County court has been endorsed by University experts as an outstanding example of constructive juvenile rehabilitation.

In San Mateo County, Judge Cotton is assisted in his work by Parent-Teacher Associations, service clubs and other organizations interested in youth welfare, which the Judge declares, offer him invaluable help in continuing the successful program of juvenile work his court has established.

At the August 25 election, Judge Cotton is seeking the support of the voters for his return to the bench. Endorsements already given his candidacy by the San Mateo County Bar Association, prominent civic groups and citizens are cited as public recognition and approval of his efforts.—Adv.

PAINT STAINS

Paint stains on upholstery are usually difficult to remove and it is essential that fresh stains should be given attention before they become hard.

Fresh stains should be rubbed with a clean cloth saturated with turpentine.

TRAINING CAMP AT MONTEREY

More than one thousand youths from every section of the state will arrive at Monterey next Monday to begin a month's training in principles of military defense at the historic Presidio of Monterey. Transportation, food, housing, and uniforms are provided by the government from funds appropriated for national defense.

Colonel Troup Miller, commanding officer of the Presidio, is camp commander. He will be assisted by officers of the regular army and organized reserves. Five rifle companies and two machine gun companies will be trained by selected officers of the Three Hundred and Sixty-third Infantry, reserve regiment. In addition there will be two cavalry troops and a battery of field artillery, whose training will be supervised by officers of their respective arms.

Under provisions of the National Defense Act of 1920, the Citizens Military Training Camps annually train 25,000 young men in various encampments through out the country. Principles of military defense and leadership are supplemented by courses in citizenship and physical development.

The complete CMTC course includes four successive encampments. Upon graduation, approved candidates may apply for appointment in the Officers Reserve Corps.

AGAIN ZENITH LEADS! OFFERS SCORES OF AMAZING NEW FEATURES FOUND IN NO OTHER RADIO—Read Details

Byrne Radio Stores are proud to present the 1937 Zenith. You must hear it, you must operate it, to appreciate why Zenith is the talk of the entire radio world. No other radio, and your own judgment will confirm this, offers you such thrilling, world-wide reception; reception that—for the first time—you may control visibly with Zenith's startling "tell-tale" controls. Read the fascinating story of this new radio below.

NEW VOICE-MUSIC HIGH FIDELITY CONTROL

This astonishing control knob at the upper left of Zenith's big, black "squared circle" dial, gives four distinct visible music-tone controls, each one a revelation in realism: "Voice," to bring you natural voice without "boom" or distortion, for the first time; "Normal," "Bass," "High Fidelity" and a fifth: "Foreign," for finest short wave tone results. Each setting of this music-tone control will thrill you with its life-like quality!

Split Second Tuning

The 1937 Zenith offers you the only means yet devised to accurately re-locate short wave foreign and domestic stations—the split-second tunes. Spells the difference between getting and missing many foreign stations.

New Calibrated Volume Control

At the lower left of Zenith's "Tell Tale" control system is a new calibrated volume knob. You can record what volume sounds best on each station. No guessing. Set it at the proper calibration when you turn on the radio—the station comes in at the desired volume.

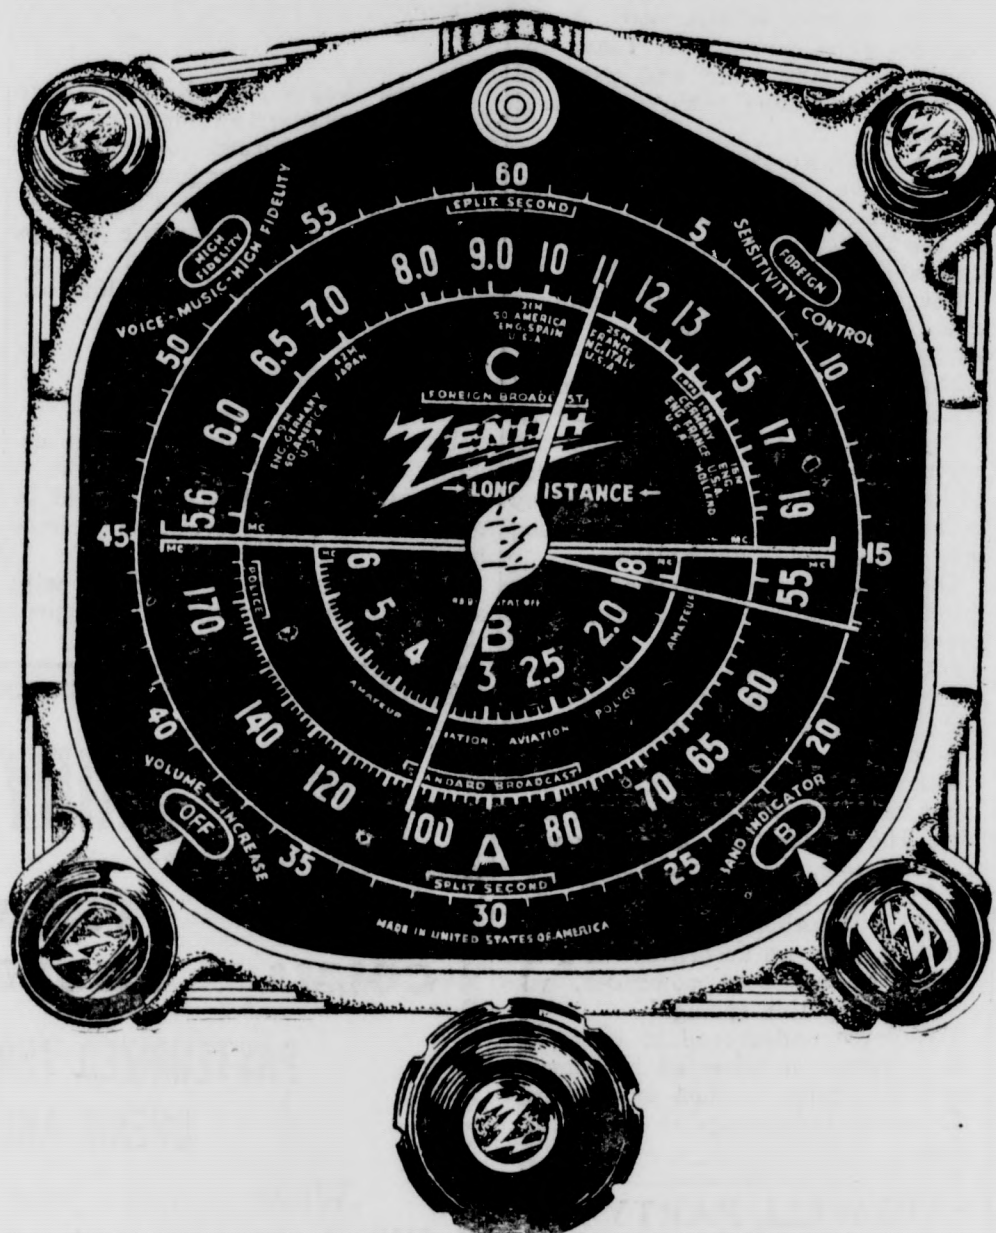

New Acoustic Adapter

Different sized rooms, different shapes, different ceiling heights make a difference in radio tone. With Zenith's amazing new acoustic adapter, you may adjust your set for perfect tone, regardless of room acoustics. Gives you that "best seat in the house" effect.

Dimensional Tone

Like finest broadcasting stations—with separate microphones for bass and treble notes—the 1937 Zenith uses multiple speakers to give you absolute fidelity. Zenith's Dimensional Tone is the most lifelike reproduction you ever heard.

New Lightning Station Finder

Absolutely exclusive to Zenith. One spin of the turning knob speeds the indicator over the entire dial range—in a flash! Tune from station to station . . . quick as lightning. "From Tokio to Berlin—in a single spin."

New Privacy Plug-In Headphones

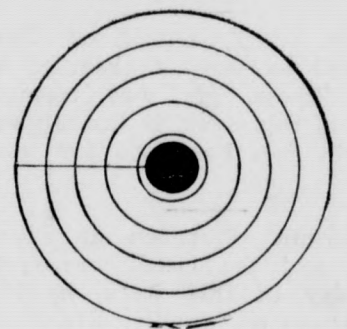

Another sensational Zenith advancement gives 3 important advantages: (1) Those who are hard-of-hearing may use the new Zenith "Feather-weight" headphones while others listen to the loudspeaker. (2) you may "plug-in" an extra speaker and place it in another room. (3) You may listen with headphones with loudspeakers "off." A grand feature for night owls who like to "fish" for foreign stations while the rest of the family sleeps.

New Sensitivity Control

At the upper right of the 1937 Zenith dial is the new sensitivity control that gives you degree of sensitivity essential for finest reception on local and out-of-town stations.

New Target Tuning

At the top of Zenith's black dial is an illuminated target. When the shadow bullet appears exactly in the center of the target, you're accurately tuned in. Perfect reception, always!

New Band Indicator

The lower right hand control knob of Zenith's big dial shows visibly the wave band you are tuned in on. Individual colored illumination is given to each band as you twist the control knob.

Uses Either Metal or Metaglas Tubes

Only Zenith is engineered to operate with either metal or the famous metaglas tubes. When you buy a Zenith, you have a radio that not only gives you the finest reception obtainable today, but one that will enable you to take advantage of future tube developments as they are perfected.

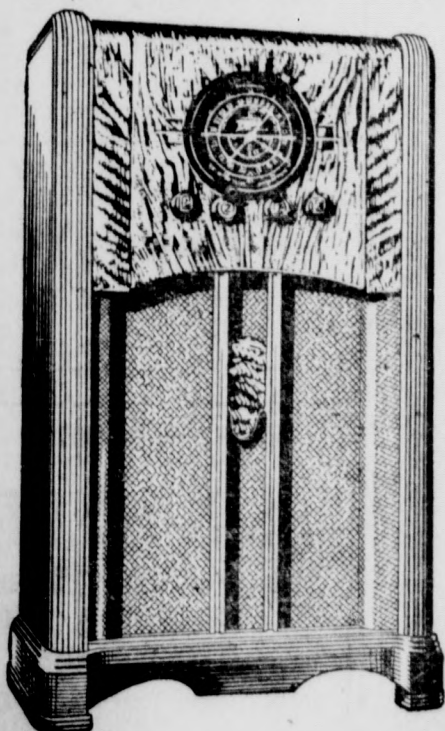

Overtone Amplifier Speaker

Zenith's speaker is built like the laminated sounding board of a grand piano. That's the reason for Zenith's rich full depth of tone—its natural reproduction of overtones in voice and music.
